Impulse IF93 Leg Extension

Details

Impulse IF93 Leg Extension machine

The Leg Extension is designed to help users train quadriceps. It features 16 different setting positions making it adaptable for a variety of different users while the tilted back pad eases pressure on the lower back whilst in the seated position.

The leg extension machine is specifically designed for entry level studios and commercial gyms and offers a complete functional package that is easy to maintain.

The specially designed pads have different angles to allow them to suit different users to target muscles with greater effect through a full range of motion.

Key Features

- Focus on developing quad muscles through isolated leg extensions
- Adjustable back pad and foam rollers to suit different users
- 16 position settings so users can find optimum starting position
- Foam rollers securely lock to keep users safe and reduce injury risk

PLEASE NOTE: This item is delivered flat-packed and requires some self-assembly. Please contact us if you require a cost for installation and commissioning in your facility